How Lincoln won the Civil War Mr. Lincoln's T-Mails: The Untold Story of How Abraham Lincoln Used the Telegraph to Win the Civil War

- Wheeler argues that the use of the telegraph by Lincoln and his Union generals may have provided the advantage necessary to win the war.
- The telegraph was a killer app for its use along rail lines, enabling more efficient scheduling of trains—which, in turn, increased traffic, and profits.
- With this breakthrough, telegraph lines exploded across the Northern parts of the USA. The Southern states, afraid that industrialization would change their way of life dramatically, moved far more slowly in establishing both railroads and telegraph lines.

Effects of interactive multimedia in distance learning
 Giti Javidi and Ehsan Sheybani, 2004, In Proceedings of the IASTED International Conference WEB-BASED EDUCATION

"The advancement in technology is shaping every aspect of our life, including education. One decade ago, the Internet was not critical to education. However, now, it has become an integral part of learning process. Internet technology is having a dramatic effect on colleges and universities, producing what may be the most challenging period in the history of higher education."

 (Intel Press Release, 2006)

- Singapore, the island city-state in Southeast Asia, is about to complete a major new public/private project that will see large chunks of the 270 square mile city provided with Wi-Fi access by the end of 2008. The entire city, indoors and out, is due to be covered by 2015.
- In the coldest capital in Canada, the city residents of Iqaluit (pop. 6,000) enjoy free wireless from one free hotspot (with two more due soon to cover the suburbs), while Taipei, Taiwan (pop. 2.6 million) has a few more—over 4,000 hotspots that provide coverage for 90 percent of the city.

That iPods are "in" on college campuses. That Apple's portable music player has replaced beer mugs? Not that surprising.

Beer traditionally has had the big students: Seventy-five percent of their campuses, according to Stu Media Study.

Only once in the past decade of it was beer bumped from the top of Student Monitor's list. The firm surveyed a representative group.

Among the findings:

- iPods were the No. 1 "in" thing students mentioned. iPods were

- Students will spend 27.5 percent more on electronic purchases this year than last year, according to a report on the National Retail Federation's annual Back-to-College Consumer Intentions and Actions Survey. That's $10.46-billion, in a category that includes flat-panel TV's, video-game consoles, laptops, and, of course, digital music players.

Interactivity

Simulation: Boomer

- Life experienced at a slower pace promotes an expectation of "it's ok to wait." Learning experienced from an early age as lecture with drill and practice without stimulation/response. Gaming as part of a learning context may be considered less effective because it is less "serious" and in some cases can be distracting.
- Older people prefer less interaction than younger people in distance education (Kearsley, 1995).

- Genxers have a rapid-fire information consumption capability. Rushkoff argues that many of the things for which this generation is maligned, such as short attention spans and lack of ability to concentrate on a single task at once are not problems but actually brilliant coping mechanisms for a world overloaded with information.

Simulation: Xer

Learner Control: Boomer

- The traditional instructor-focus is what is expected. The instructor determines what is important to learn and how it should be learned. Consistency and control are maintained with the "tell me, tell me, tell me" approach.

Learner Control: Xer

- Xers expect a range of options, in terms of what they learn and how they learn it. They require autonomy and flexibility for their own learning. They demand a variety of instructional methods from which they can choose to learn, e.g., videotapes, self-paced modules, interactive CDs.

Trend #1: Blogging (75,000 new blogs each day, USA Today, March 27, 2006)

Scholars who Blog, Chronicle of Higher Ed, (Glenn Reynolds, instapundit.com; Stephen's Web, www.downes.ca)

Stephen Downes (2004)

"A blog...is and has always been more than the online equivalent of a personal journal...But a blog is also characterized by its reflection of a personal style, and this style may be reflected in either the writing or the selection of links passed along to readers. Blogs are, in their purest form, the core of what has come to be called personal publishing. (p. 18)."

According to Linda Evarts (2003)

"Web logs — blogs for short — are the surprise wedding of the informational capacity of journalism and the speed of instant messaging....Composed of short and frequently updated postings arranged in chronological order, blogs are Web sites similar to online journals, offering information on topics ranging from foreign policy to poetry."

China says number of blogs tops 34 million with 55 million regular readers

Canadian Press

Tuesday, September 26, 2006

BEIJING (AP) — The number of blogs in China has topped 34 million, more than 30 times as many as the country had four years ago, news reports said Tuesday.

Some 17.5 million people in China consider themselves Web log writers, while 55 million regularly read them, newspapers and the Xinhua News Agency said, citing a report by the government's China Internet Network Information Centre.

Web logs are hugely popular in China, where the government controls all media and the Internet offers most people the only public forum for expressing opinions. Most blogs deal with pop culture, travel, family matters and other nonpolitical subjects.

Educational use of Blogs

For instructors

- Professional practice
- Networking and knowledge sharing
- Course management tool

For students

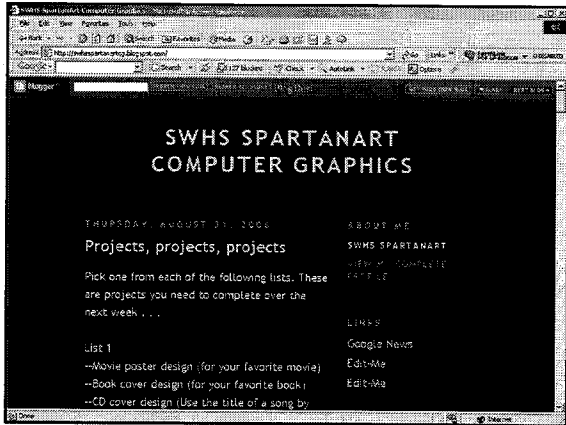

- Reflections or journals
- Dialogue with peers
- Group work
- Communicate with instructor

Blogging Questions

1. Who has a blog? Any for a specific class?
2. Who regularly reads other people's blogs?
3. Who assigns blogging tasks?
4. Who has created a video blog?
5. Who thinks it is an utter waste of time to blog?

Use of Weblogs (especially English writing class)

1. Instructor or Tutor blog: resources, information, space to chat
2. Learner blog: reflections, sharing links and pics, fosters ownership of learning
3. Partner blog: work on team projects or activities
4. Class blog: international exchanges, projects, PBL
5. Revision: review and explode sentences from previous posts, add details
6. Nutshell: summarize themes or comments across blogs
7. Blog on blog: reflections on feelings, confusions, and experiences with blogs

Debates about Wiki Quality

Brandon Hall, Chief Learning Officer Magazine, July 2006

"A wiki is a collection of Web pages that can be easily viewed and modified by anyone, providing a means for sharing learning and collaboration."

Brandon Hall, Chief Learning Officer Magazine, July 2006

"Wikis can be used to create content on-the-fly, as a repository for information and for archiving group learning. Benefits include speed, simplicity and a sense of ownership among participants."

For Teachers New to Wikis

- Wikis are free, online writing spaces.
- Wikis use simple formatting rules, so no HTML understanding required.
- Highly collaborative composing and creativity
- Authors do not claim ownership
- Published online
- Wikis provide a history and anyone can revisit prior versions of text

How use in teaching

1. Provide space for free writing
2. Debate course topics and readings
3. Share resources (websites, conferences, writing, etc.)
4. Maintain group progress journal
5. Require group or class essay
6. Have student revise Wikipedia pages
7. Write a wikibook

MIT Launches Center for Collective (Wiki) Intelligence, October 10, 2006 Campus Technology

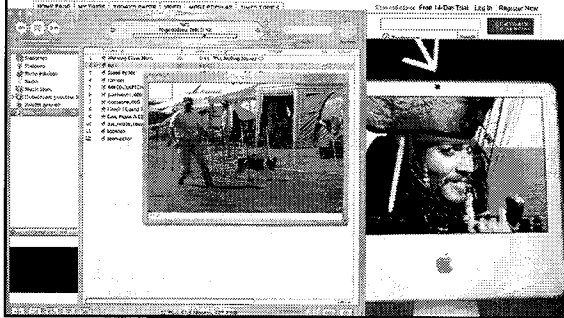

- MIT opens the doors this week of the MIT Center for Collective Intelligence (CCI), which has set the ambitious goal to understand how to harness the power of large numbers of people – connected via the Internet and other technologies – to solve a range of business, scientific, and societal problems.
- CCI Director Thomas Malone said the recent successes of "Google and Wikipedia suggest that the time is now ripe for many more such systems." Malone, author of "The Future of Work," said the Center's research will address, "how can people and computers be connected so that – collectively – they act more intelligently than any individuals, groups, or computers have ever done before?"

Brandon Hall, Chief Learning Officer Magazine, July 2006

"Podcasts provide a way to distribute an audio or video episode via the Internet for playback at any time on any MP3 device or PC. Podcasts allow training in the form of event capture, new product information, sales tips, orientation, etc. to be delivered on a just-in-time, just-enough basis to anyone anywhere."

Podcast Questions

1. Who has listened to a podcast?
2. Who listens to a certain podcast on a regular basis?
3. Who has created a podcast?
4. Who has created a vodcast?
5. Who thinks podcasting is simply more talking heads?

Playfuls.com July 15, 2006

- Nielsen/NetRatings announced that 6.6 percent of the U.S. adult online population, or 9.2 million Web users, have recently downloaded an audio podcast. Also 4.0 percent, or 5.6 million Web users, have recently downloaded a video podcast. These figures put the podcasting population on a par with those who publish blogs, 4.8 percent, and online daters, 3.9 percent. However, podcasting is not yet nearly as popular as viewing and paying bills online, 51.6 percent, or online job hunting, 24.6 percent.
